Print - A Power in Our Lives

This year's awards campaign – “Empowered by Print” – showcases how print permeates every part of the lives of New Zealanders.

Since 1993, the Pride In Print Awards have been the driving force to raise quality levels in the New Zealand Printing Industry, assisting our winning printers and designers to achieve the commercial advantage that comes with success on the Awards stage.

That advantage is now realised in the marketplace. Printers displaying a recent winning Gold Medal tell the world they achieve the top industry standards in their area of work.

Those displaying medals won over several years are assuring their customers they are consistent in delivering top-quality products. Buyers should always take note of printers with Pride In Print Awards on show -- they are printers that are achieving the top standards in the industry.

The success of Pride In Print over 23 years has been attained through setting a quality bar appropriate to each print sector, giving printers an incentive to exceed that level and recognising them when they do so.

Gold medals go to entries which attain the quality standards established by their peers. Setting the bar high within each print sector gives printers the incentive to get to that level, and they deserve recognition when they do.

For more than two decades, this has been the fundamental approach of Pride In Print. Quality is paramount. Attaining the high standards set means the efforts of everyone who has upped their performance and attained the goals set, are rewarded.

The best of the best go forward for consideration as category winners and best in process. A select group of entries is then subject to a very thorough evaluation to determine which superb example will win the highly-coveted Supreme Award.

Top quality can come from any print shop, big or small. The quality-based approach has encouraged the success of companies who are smaller or in niches. The “small team” can sometimes win by and has!

The quality bar has risen over the years, reinforced through scrutiny and feedback from the collective expertise of the specialist judges.

The Awards are independent and transparent to assure they are accepted as the pinnacle of industry achievement. Several industry groups combine to support the Awards, which are then organised and managed by an independent Manager to assure every element is transparent.

Now, Pride In Print is imbued in the culture of New Zealand Print. The work you see showcased here is the reflection of that culture.

New Zealand is truly empowered by print.
